

Bible Translation (Marcia)

I've been comparing the Gambian Fonyi translation of the New Testament with the one we worked on in Senegal, looking at just a few pages of several NT books, and charting the differences I find between the two. Thankfully, I haven't forgotten the Fonyi I worked with for so many years, and both translations seem pretty clear, even to me. But there are indeed several kinds of differences, and it's not obvious what this will mean. Do we need two translations, or will one suffice? That's the great question.

I'm glad we're making a little bit of progress on this front, finally, but I know it will be a long process. Please keep praying for patience, for the Lord's clear guidance, and for unity among all concerned.

Geros' Journal Winter 2010

*"Arise, shine; for your light has come,
and the glory of the LORD has risen upon you.
For darkness shall cover the earth,
and thick darkness the peoples;
but the LORD will arise upon you,
and his glory will appear over you."
(Isaiah 60.1-2)*

Lighthouse Christian Academy (Glenn)

Finals are upon us at Lighthouse Christian Academy. It is hard to believe that the semester is already over and half the school year gone! This has been a very busy and productive semester, using a new writing curriculum. I am particularly enjoying the seventh grade humanities course which combines language arts and history. Having designed this course as a project-based one, students do frequent research and oral presentations, and lots of writing using our new system. As usual, the seventh graders are a delight—a good match for my high-energy personality. I need a rest though!

Emory Law School (Jesse)

I'm still studying hard and hanging out with the goats, occasionally. My final exams are coming up. Everyone's working harder than ever. I've made a few friends, and we study together. Jennie has her third, and last, set of exams for this semester coming up. We're both looking forward to Winter Break! I'm considering applying to a technology/ business/ law program that would give me a chance to work with a team of law, business and engineering students, over a two-year period: taking a technological innovation from the lab to the marketplace. I would hope to tie the experience to my interest in international development.

Mountain Mission School (Bekah)

Bekah is engaged! to a nice young man from Cameroon, Romual (Romey) Tchouta. She met him in Tennessee, where he's a graduate student in accounting at a school not far from the college she attended (Milligan). They've been dating for over six months and have known each other casually for over a year. They're still trying to work out the best time for the wedding.

We wish we could invite each and every one of you to come and celebrate with us! You have been such an important part of Jesse and Bekah's lives. Please know that we carry each of you in our hearts during this time; we are so grateful for all that you have done for us as a family over the years!

May the Lord's Light and Joy shine brightly in your hearts,
as you meditate on the miracle of our Savior's birth,

Glenn, Marcia, Jesse and Bekah
